'Four Degrees' reveals what might become of Australians and their country if global average temperatures are allowed to increase by 4 degrees above that of 200 years ago. It paints a 'bleak vision of a continent under assault.' And that will be our future if we do nothing - just keep going along as we are today. Thankfully the book is also full of clear and realistic solutions, which makes it a must-read for all caring Australians. All of these things will be impacted by a warming of 4 degrees. This book spells out how,' said Dr Howden, CSIRO. 'Four Degrees of Global Warming' was written by many of Australia's most eminent and internationally recognised climate scientists, climate policy makers and policy analysts, including four CSIRO authors. New research suggests that a temperature increase of four degrees is likely to "saturate" areas of dense vegetation with carbon, preventing plants from helping to balance CO2 escalation -- and ...Lees „Four Degrees of Global Warming Australia in a Hot World“ door met Rakuten Kobo.
